
How do I preview my report on the SEC's website?

In early 2018, the SEC removed the ability to preview XBRL reports using their website. Filers can still download the SEC's previewer software and install it on a computer to preview reports locally. To download the SEC's rendering software, follow the instructions on this website .

You can also preview reports using GoFiler instead. GoFiler has a function built into the software to set up the SEC's previewer software and use it for previewing reports. See this article for more information.
